Message from the Head Teacher

Dear Parents/Carers,

As you are aware, the Parent Teacher Child Consultations take place next week. Although the consultations only last ten minutes, the teachers will provide you with thorough information regarding your child's current personal and academic achievement.

I would also like to remind you that the children's books are being sent home today: we call it Celebrate My Learning weekend. Please explore your child's books thoroughly; the work the children do in their books is a very good evidence of the progress they have made since last October (the last time we sent them home). It is always great to see children's work; please do not forget to praise their effort and hard work they have put into their learning.

Also, looking at books will hopefully allow you to prepare questions for the teachers, which you can ask during the consultations. It is worth asking questions about how to support your child's learning at home, the teachers will be able to tell you exactly what your child needs to practise.

Anyway, you may be keen to discuss other issues, so please make sure you have your appointment booked. If you experience any problems, do not hesitate to contact the child's teacher or school office. We will do our best to accommodate your request.

Polite Notice

Following on from our email on 27th January, we would like to say a big thank you to those parents who followed our guidance and are now dropping their children off at the KS1 gates, rather than directly into the classrooms / corridors.

Please could I urge all parents to do this.

It leads to greater independence on the part of your children and reduces congestion in the corridors and classrooms, so leading to a calm and quiet beginning to the day.
